FIRE BURNS A MILTON HOME

Was Discovered Just in Time, by a Brakeman on a Passing Train.

Last night at one o'clock, the residence of W. A. Chaney of Milton, was partially destroyed by fire. The loss will not exceed a hundred dollars, but it was a close shave for the whole building, and Mr. and Mrs. Chaney and their family. The fire was first seen by a brakeman, who noticed the flames as the crept out of the wood shed door. He immediately rang the fire alarm and notified another man who was passing who woke Mr. Chaney and family. Had the fire gained much more headway, the whole house would have gone up in smoke. As it was the flames were confined to the woodshed and a portion of the inside of the house. The Milton fire department with their engine did efficient work and quickly had the blaze under control. Mr. Chaney said this morning, that he carried $1000 insurance which covered his loss. He is, however, at a loss to understand how the fire started and thinks it must be of incendiary origin. A year ago he lost a barn in the same way.

LEGISLATURE IS THROUGH WORK

Turn the Clock Back, so as to Be Able To Finish at Appointed Time.

(Special to The Gazette.) Madison, Wis., May 20.—Assembly clock had to be set back over two hours to enable the assembly to finish the work of the session by appointed time, 12 noon today, and was by actual time 2:50 when the adjournment was taken till tomorrow. The senate concluding an hour earlier. Call of the house was necessary to quorum in the assembly to concur in amendments to the mortgage taxation bill agreed on in the conference today. Amendments were cut out of the provision for agreement between mortgagor and mortgagee, and provide that the act shall not apply to railway mortgages. Assembly refused to concur in the senate amendment to political lobbyist bill which exempted federal officers from application of law. Bill providing for a commission to redistrict all judicial circuits was concurred in by assembly. Game law as amended to permit spring shooting, April 10 to 25, was concurred in. Is learned on good authority that new conservative combination to oppose Gov. La Follette in next election is being organized with Congressman Babcock at head. It will be in nature of eleventh story league, but will do its work more quietly.

LAUNDRY STRIKERS WANT TO SETTLE

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.) Chicago, May 20.—Proposals to settle the laundry strike were made by the unions today. The workers will return if the owners agree to pay the union scale. PYROMANIAC DESTROYS ADVENTIST PROPERTY

Incendiarism is Charged in Connection With the Burning of Buildings of the Sect.

Battle Creek, Mich., May 20.—It is believed that the scourge of fire that has been destroying one big building after another owned by the local Seventh Day Adventists, representing over $1,000,000 worth of damage, has been the work of incendiaries, and possibly religious fanatics.

Within a short time fire has destroyed the following Adventist institutions in Battle Creek: A large sanitarium, the largest printing house in Michigan, a six-story brick hospital, two health food factories, one large laundry, the original sanitarium cottages, the power plant for the orphan's home, and the barns of the sanitarium. Two lives have been lost.

It has been known that the health food factory was set on fire and officials say they know who fired the Review and Herald printing plant.

Outsiders believe the effort to destroy Adventist property is an organized one. If the Adventists will not push an investigation on the ground that the fires are the will of God, the civil authorities will undoubtedly do so.

Prophetess White declares these fires are a sign that the Adventists shall leave Battle Creek, the city in which she founded the sect. The Adventist college and printing business have already been removed.

TWELVE THOUSAND ARE NOW READY TO STRIKE ANY TIME

Walters' and Helpers' Unions of Chicago Demand a Twenty Per Cent Increase.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.) Chicago, May 20.—Today twelve thousand members of the waiters and helpers unions formulated a demand for increased wages and shorter hours. Waiters, waitresses, cooks, bartenders, bar porters, kitchen employes, chambermaids, baggage men are all affected, all be affiliated. Horizontal increase of twenty per cent and 66 hours a week is asked for. Organizer Fitzgerald commenting on the bartenders' demands said: "The bartenders are not to blame for being forced to work at their business, but I wish they would strike and destroy every saloon and brewery in the country. Liquor is labor's curse. Let a man that drinks whiskey to strengthen him buy a beefsteak instead; that's the kind of strength he needs. Let him buy books and educate himself. If he's not satisfied with his condition in life, whiskey only reduces his physical moral and mental condition." An answer to union demands must be made within five days. Employers have appointed committees to confer with unions.

PUSHING WAR ON LABOR UNIONS

Employers of New York Take Steps to Resist Demands.

New York, May 20.—Steps have been taken by the employers' union to begin a campaign to curtail the powers of the labor unions affiliated with the United Board of Building Trades. The committee is in no sense an arbitration committee, but at the outset will insist on the withdrawal of some of the demands made by the labor unions.

Aerolite as Big as Oil Barrel Cuts Down Trees in West Virginia.

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 20.—The largest meteor ever seen in West Virginia is reported to have been seen by employees of the Felton Lumber company near Grafton. While in their timber camp they heard a peculiar whizzing noise, followed by an intensely bright light. They rushed out and saw a meteor, which they described as a ball of fire as big as an oil barrel, whizzing in a southeasterly direction. It sped through the forest like a bullet and mowed down tall timbers like a scythe. Many trees were cut off as smoothly as if they had been sawed down. The meteor was still going when they lost sight of it.

POLICE LAUGH AT THE STORY

Man Arrested in Sacramento for Threatening the President, a Harmless Drunk.

STORY AS HEARD

The Suspect Had a Gun, and It Was Said He Threatened Roosevelt's Life.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.) Sacramento, Cal., May 20.—The story told by Frank Woodson when he arrested Charles Pandemian last night for uttering threats against Roosevelt, is disproved by the police. Pandemian says he is employed at the mines.

Sacramento, Cal., May 20.—During President Roosevelt's visit here a man was arrested by Citizen F. M. Woodson. Woodson heard him say: "One has died, and another might just as well."

When arrested and taken to the jail the man gave his name as Randleman. He had a big sixshooter inside his vest and two extra cartridges in his pocket. He offered no explanation. He has a ticket from Sacramento to the Shelby Smelting works. He had $27 in his pocket.

Sacramento gave President Roosevelt an enthusiastic welcome. The whole city was decorated in honor of the nation's chief executive, and the station was surrounded by a great throng of cheering people.

CHILDREN GREET PRESIDENT

The president was met at the station by Gov. Pardee and Mayor Clark and the citizens' committee. Followed by several carriages filled with citizens and preceded by a coach filled with muscians, the president drove from the depot to the grandstand, which was crowded with school children, who presented a pretty appearance, each one of the several thousand little ones waving an American flag.

After the review of the school children President Roosevelt drove to the Sutter club, where he dined. After dinner he drove to the state capitol building, where he had a brief informal talk with Gov. Pardee and other city officials.

WILL SCRATCH INFERIOR MEN

Dental Board Able to Throw Out Incompetent Applicants—Sponsor of Bill Here.

Only after passing such an examination as the state dental board may prescribe will candidates for admission to practice in this state be given the desired certificates hereafter. Yesterday victory crowned the efforts which Dr. C. C. Chittenden of Madison, president of the state dental board, who has been working for the past eighteen years, to pass a bill which will throw out all applicants who are unfit to practice, regardless of diplomas which they may have received. The story of the bill was told by Dr. Chittenden at the dental meeting this afternoon.

According to the terms of the bill the board may only pass a man without an examination who has taken a four years' course and academic work equivalent to the Junior year in high school. Men who have received diplomas from reputable colleges of dentistry, who have served apprenticeships for five years, or who have practised for four years may be admitted upon passing an examination. Formerly any diploma from a reputable school entitled a candidate to a license whether or not he had received the barest common school training. Dr. Chittenden has been closely identified with the contest to fight to carry the bill through.

SEASON OPENS MAY THIRTIETH

THE SINNISSIPPI GOLF CLUB HAS A ANY CHANGES IN VIEW.

ESTABLISH A STEWARDSHIP

Don Farnsworth Has Presented the Club with a Set of Vudor
Porch Shades.

When the golf club has the Vudor shades hung about the porch, the tennis court in playing order and the kitchen and sideboard under the able management of Louis Moulton running, the Sinissippi Golf club house will be a place that will be eagerly sought during the coming warm months by both the active and honorary members.

Elaborate Plans
Mr. Don Farnsworth has presented the golf club with a full set of his Vudor shades which will be hung about the porch and can be raised and lowered at will thus cutting off the wind that often sweeps across the wide veranda, making it disagreeable for those watching the players. It is a handsome present and one that will be much appreciated by visitors during the coming summer. It will make the porch doubly more sought than in the past and will aid to the beauty of the building.

The Tennis Court
Already the plans of the board of directors as to a tennis court have been carried out and workmen are busy putting the finishing touches to a fine double court thirty-six by seventy-eight feet which will be of clay and is so situated that it will be in view of the porch and yet in no way conflict with the golf course. It will be marked and ready for players by Decoration day at which time the formal opening of the club will be held.

Putting Clock
The putting clock is also being given a hauling over and the ground leveled about it so that the few hummocks that have risen in the past winter will be as level as it was last year. This and the tennis court will be open to the honorary members and if the sentiment of the members favors a croquet grounds one will also be added. In fact as one of the board said last evening: "We want to make the grounds and building as attractive as possible for all our members, particularly for the honorary ones, so that they will enjoy coming out even if they are not golfers."

Steward Moulton
Perhaps the most important innovation planned is the establishing of a stewardship at the club house. Louis Moulton has been chosen for this place and with his past experience as a cook and his reputation in the culinary art he will be a welcome addition to the clubhouse. It is now planned to put the kitchen, dishes, silver and clubhouse in his charge. He will be there at all times ready to serve a lunch to the hungry golfers from his sideboard or a supper on the porch to the members who may so select. It is an experiment as yet, but with the hearty co-operation of the members it is sure to be a success.

Supper on the Porch
Just imagine how nice it will be to sit on the porch and look out over the course and with no bother or trouble to yourself have a dainty supper spread before you, faultlessly cooked and served. All that will be necessary for you to do is to telephone to Mr. Moulton three or four hours before that you are coming, tell him what you want to eat and if it is in the market you will find it ready when you arrive hot and dusty from the city.

Novel Feature
It will really be the most novel feature of the many additions planned. No bother of cooking the supper, of lighting the fire, of setting the table, all done before you get there and all you have to do is to eat in comfort with no thought of the cleaning up of dishes and carrying the lunch basket home.

Same as Usual
But this plan will in no way interfere with the plans of former days when lunch baskets were carried out and coffee cooked by the happy picnicers; if you so select you can do that still, but you must make arrangements with Mr. Moulton for the silver, the dishes and use of the kitchen. He will furnish these and you will pay him for their use. The prices will not be exorbitant and no more than it would cost to buy the coffee and cook it there, but by so doing the steward's department will be kept up and the club properly taken care of.

Opening Plans
At the present time the plans are to have the formal opening of the 1903 season on Decoration day. There will be a handicap sweepstakes' tournament in the afternoon and a golf supper and dance in the evening. It will formally open the clubhouse for the summer. Mr. Moulton will serve the supper at the usual price and the care and worry of the ladies will be done away with. This will be the first test of the new steward and what a comfort it will be to the club.

Summer Plans
The handicap and games committee have arranged several series of events for the coming summer. In the first place the scores for the qualifying rounds for positions on the club team should all be handed in to the secretary before June 1 so that a goodly number of names may be ready to pick the players from. The Richardson medal and the Valentine medal are both to be competed for and there will be a putting contest and no end of matches with outside clubs.

Bi-Weekly Dances
There will be bi-weekly suppers and dances during the summer. Good music will be furnished and Manager Myers of the opera house has offered the use of his excellent orchestra for one night which will promise a rare treat from a musical standpoint. These suppers will be furnished by the club steward.

'Bus Starts
The club bus has been repainted and repaired and is just out of the shop. On Monday next it will be running to meet every car in the afternoon after half past one and will be ready to bring belated parties back to the city in the evening.

ABNER DANIEL AS A PHILOSOPHER

Smart Sayings of the Southerner,
Whose Story is Soon To Be Seen in The Gazette.

The following are some of the choice bits of humor, which appear in Abner Daniel, the serial story soon to be started in the Gazette. They are rich gems of thought and full of wit and show what the story itself will be when you once get to reading it.

"I've never known to takes sides in any connubial tussel yet," he said to Traine in a dry tone. "All may not know what he's about right now, but he's Solomon hisself" compared to a fellow that will undertake to settle a dispute betwixt a man and his wife—more especially the wife."

"Betsy blazed up like the woods afore in a high wind. It didn't take old Jane long to diskliver that thar was several breeds o' bishops out o' jail."

"Yore ma's wastin' breath; but a woman seems to have plenty of it to spare. A woman's tongue's like a windmill—it takes breath to keep it agoin', and a dead clam 'ud kill her business."

"But yore pa ain't no fool. No plumb idiot could 'a' managed yore ma as well as he has. You see, I know what he's accomplished, fer I've been with 'im ever since they was yoked together. When they was married, she was as wild as a buck, and certainly made our daddy walk a chalk line, but Alfred has tapered her down beautiful."

"I let my box 'axle grease drip, an' it rolled like a wagon wheel off duty an' me after it, bendin'—bendin' of all positions—heer and yan, in the most ridiculous way. I tell you, I never play croquet ur leapfrog in them pants. All the way home I thought how I'd disgraced you."

"The longer a man live without a woman, the more he gits like one."

"If you mean to keep it up" (referring to family prayer), Abner was saying augumentively, "all right an' good, but I don't believe in sudden spurts o' worship."

"Well, I acknowledge it sorter interests me," went on our philosopher in an insinuating tone, "be'ase, Broth-er Dole, you kin often trace a man's good ur bad doins to his belief in Bible matters."

"It sets me to wonderin, what de-nomination Perkins belongs to, that's all," said Abner, with another smile. "I know in reason, he's a big Ike in some church in Atlanta, fer I never knowed a lawyer that wasn't fore-most in that way o' doin' good."

WHAT IT TAKES FOR A BAKERY

Interesting Story of Just How Much Work One Bakery Does.

Cleanliness is the prevailing feature at Benson and Lane's Eureka bakery. They are now running the plant full force in the new building, corner High and Wall street. Bread, pies, cookies and cakes are shipped to over a hundred towns, averaging about seventy-five basket crates daily at present.

Thirty-five hundred loaves of all the different kinds of bread daily is what they are now baking. Four hundred dozen rolls, two hundred dozen cup cakes, three hundred dozen fried cakes, the same number of cookies, and two hundred dozen square and layer cakes come from the capacious ovens each day.

In the front of the building is a large office and salesroom, then the packing room, where rows of paper boxes, called "cartons," they are used for packing, are ranged around the wall. Everything shipped away is sent in big square basket like crates.

Three Cars Per Month

Three cars of flour per month are used, one of cake flour which is made from winter wheat and comes from southern Illinois and two cars of bread flour. Bread flour used here is made from spring wheat and comes from Minnesota and South Dakota fields. There are two big brick ovens, having a capacity of five hundred and four hundred loaves of bread at one baking. These ovens are of the latest improved type, all the firing is done from the rear, so the front of the oven is clean and no smoke or ashes get on the bread. A shift of five men work nights bread making and one of three men during the day. In the baking room is an apparatus called a "proofing box" for finishing rolls. This is heated by steam and holds one hundred and fifty dozen at a time.

Electrical Dough Mixer

The dough mixer is run by electricity and is of the latest pattern. It holds three and a half barrels of dough. Near this is a machine called a dough breaker which works the dough better than can be done by hand and makes finer bread. A proof room heated by steam, adjoins the oven. It is for raising bread in cold weather. For raising, the dough is placed in long troughs that can be moved, being fitted with wheels. In the baking room are also moveable bread racks for cooling the freshly baked loaves.

Use Elevator

The bread flour, as it comes in the sacks is elevated to the third floor of the building. Before being used it is run through an immense sifter.

Fried Cakes

At four o'clock in the morning a force of men begin making fried cakes. It takes about four hours to make 300 dozen. The making goes on in the morning and again at night, while dozens of cookies of various kinds, colors and shapes go in and out of another set of ovens all day.

The Shipments

Shipments are now made morning and night. The company's stables are in the rear of the building and the wagons are loaded under cover. Three teams are used for city delivery alone.

Gown Talks.

Alderman Connell of the Second ward insists that it was only his good fortune, but his admiring Janesville friends feel sure that it was in honor of his coming that people of Louisville laid themselves out to entertain him. However that may be, Connell had a royal time in the Kentucky city during the ten days visit from which he has just returned.

The great Louisville race meet was on, and Connell was a frequent visitor at the track side. He says that the crowds passed the ten thousand mark and the society display of fair women and gaudy traps was magnificent. Incidentally there were some races of more than passing merit.

A week ago Monday a negro was hung in Louisville, the first event of the kind which that city has enjoyed in eleven years. The Bower City Alderman was presented with a pass to the execution, but he decided that he was not in quest of that form of diversion.

During his stay a trolley line was completed between New Albany and Jeffersonville two villages each about six miles from Louisville, and Alderman Connell was a passenger on the first car which went through between the two cities as the guest of the Louisville Commercial club.

A CO-PARTNERSHIP

This is distinctly an age of partnerships. A combination of industries unite forces and form alliances for the betterment of business. Two or three men engage in business together, one may control the bulk of the capital, another may possess the ability and experience necessary to success. The capital and the experience are helpless alone, but when united they become a recognized power in the commercial world.

These partnerships for mutual profit discover two or three things that are vital to success, before they have been long in existence. One of the most important is, that absolute harmony and a determination to work together without friction is necessary.

Another is, a division of labor without interference. This is sometimes difficult to practice, because so many men believe that their judgment is infallible on almost any business proposition.

Perhaps the most important lesson that partnership involves is the lesson of confidence. Without this element no combination of forces can long exist. This confidence must cover more than honesty. It must mean faith in ability and judgment, and it must inspire such a feeling of friendliness that all questions can be settled in the most friendly manner.

The largest partnership that exists today is the partnership between capital and labor, and many of the conditions are the same that surround a business combination. The same degree of dependence, and the same necessity for confidence. The interests of each are mutual and the same spirit of forbearance and conciliation that contributes to success in any partnership are necessary.

Men never know each other, however long may have been their acquaintance, until they are associated together in business. This is just as true of the employer and the employee. The former is supposed to have money enough to carry on the business, and the latter is supposed to possess ability and energy to carry on his part of the work. When these forces combine, if both are appreciative the most friendly relations are established and frequently continue for years.

Partnerships of this kind exist in Janesville, and in almost every city. Industries where capital is considerate and thoughtful, and where labor is always at its best. These conditions are normal and natural, and they should be the prevailing conditions everywhere. The Wall Street Journal in discussing this question recently said:

Labor and capital are partners in the work of production and not merely in a moral sense but also in a business sense. Each side has certain rights and certain duties. Capital naturally enjoys the right of direction of the work of production, as to all such matters as do not infringe upon the rights of the labor employed. The labor employed has the right to a fair wage to a fair day's work done. Capital has not the right to demand more than a fair day's work or offer less than a fair day's pay. The question of wages and hours is one of the facts and is, therefore, susceptible of arbitration at all times provided that it involves no other question. Capital has no right to force a man to work against his will and labor no right to refuse permission to work to anyone. There is no manner of doubt that the moment that organized labor uses any other than methods of strictly moral persuasion to prevent non-union men from working, it infringes the moral law and the law of the land. Union labor is within its legal right in refusing to work alongside non-union labor, but its moral right to do so, is at least doubtful.

Employers are within their rights in refusing to permit union labor to impose conditions upon capital which do not directly affect the question of hours and wages. It is justified in resisting all such demands. The right to direct covers the question, in a partnership, the various partners have various duties. That is of the very essence of partnership. Apparently the main dispute at present is not a matter of hours and wages, at all events, in the essence. The employers resent what they call the interference of the unions in details other than wages and hours. The unions will be well advised to bear clearly in mind, the terms of the implied deed of partnership, so to speak in these matters. In matter of wages and hours, public sympathy will always be with the laboring man unless his claims are manifestly unjust. The public, however, will not sympathize with organized labor in anything like aggression upon the rights of the other partner in the direction of business. It is not merely a question of dignity and its possible loss on either side. It is a question of efficiency in the work to be done.

OPEN TO SUSPICION

Oshkosh Northwestern.—There can be no denial that Governor La Follette, while performing the duties of his office with skill and an apparent desire to serve the interests of the people alone, has aroused a growing suspicion on the part of a large number of persons that he is inclined to "play politics" as the common expression goes. In other words he has managed at divers times, and in an adroit and skillful manner, to appeal to the legislature for some principal or action which seems to be in keeping with a desire for good government and for the protection or welfare of the general public, but the effect of which, intentional or otherwise, is mainly to place the governor in the light of a defender and champion of the people against interests supposed to be antagonistic. It is not impossible that the governor is sincerely honest in these facts of his which have aroused suspicion, but that such suspicion does exist, and also that it works to the detriment of every plan of the executive cannot be questioned. Even the Madison Journal, which has been numbered among the governor's friends and supporters, gives evidence of this fact, as the following goes to show. It says:

"The governor's last message to the legislature urging economy and suggesting the budget system for legislative appropriation, is somewhat tardy but in order, nevertheless. It is unfortunate that this was not urged earlier in the season. Beside being more timely then, it would have been open to the suspicions of being merely campaign literature."

No one regrets more than the Northwestern that such a condition exists, but it has reached a point where it is impossible to ignore it. And in the study of the situation and the causes which have led up to it one can not fail to be impressed with the idea that this alone furnishes the explanation for the apparent working at cross purposes in the legislature, and the failure of the latter to make any marked progress in the transaction of the needed and desired legislation.

While it is significant, it is not at all surprising that these two papers the Oshkosh Northwestern and the Madison Journal should criticize the action of the governor, and accuse him of playing politics. One of his recent messages sent to the assembly recommended economy in dealing with appropriations. The action would have been commendable, but for the fact that the bills carrying the heavy expenditures had already been passed by both houses. It is always a good time to lock the barn after the thief has gone, but that policy never saves a horse. Some of the governor's antics indicate that he is becoming desperate. The people of the state enjoy a game of politics now and then, but for a steady diet of four years, with two more in sight it becomes a little monotonous.

THE ANTHRACITE DISTRICT

It is interesting to note the conditions that now exist in the anthracite coal fields. The miners are said to have more money than at any time since the civil war, and many of them are thrifty and economical. The strike commission appears to have accomplished a good work for the miners, but just what concessions they secured for the public, is not apparent. A Philadelphia paper thus describes the conditions now existing in the coal fields. "The miners and other workmen about the anthracite mines are now receiving the back pay awarded them by the strike commission and the money will all be paid before the end of the month. This, with the advance allowed by the strike commission, from April 1 will make money plentiful in the coal regions and will afford more prosperous times for the mine workers than at any time since the civil war."

The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company's report on the earnings of its employees gives some interesting figures. The contract miners earned in the first half of May 1932, when the strike was begun, at the rate of $3.12 per day, other skilled labor $2.31 per day, unskilled labor

$1.83 per day, and boys $1 per day. The average earnings of these employees was from $2.00 for the boys to $3.25 for the contract miners, and the average daily wages for all employees inside the mines was $2.32. The men and boys outside the mines averaged $1.49 per day.

The total amount of money paid to 5,120 employees in 1931 was $2,158,887, which was $200,000 less than it would have been had there not been a suspension of work by reason of floods.

It is estimated that the employees have $1,000,000 deposited in the bank of Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua and Lansford and some of the older employees of the company have additional sums of money in the hands of the company, preferring to put it there rather than in the bank.

A table showing the leading articles of food consumed per family in the anthracite regions, indicates the rise in price during the four years from 1898 to 1902. In the former year, the average quantity of food consumed by 24 families cost $249.98. In 1899 the cost of the same articles fell to $244.04, and since that time it has risen to $275.14. According to these figures, the table of the anthracite miner costs him $25 per year more than it did in 1898.

Science has done much in the way of discovery, and it is also responsible for the enactment of some very foolish laws. The killing of herds of cattle, for instance, has become a fact that will run its course. Recent discoveries determined that the Creator knew what he was about when cattle were created, and that he did not provide them with any contagious diseases.

The crow will continue to caw, for the governor is his friend, and has said so by veto. Good for the governor. History will record at least one commendable act of a much condemned administration.

Governor Yates has signed the Muehler bill and the city of Chicago now has the right to own her traction companies. If she, so desires, The Gazette does not believe in city ownership of public utilities, and by the time Chicago gets 50 millions invested in street railways, the city will find that it is a poor paying investment.

Congressman Hancock has the temerity to come home for his summer vacation, and the Milwaukee Organ is very much stirred up over the event.

Civil service is a stumbling block in the post office department and is the means of putting many obstacles in the way of thorough investigation.

PRESS COMMENT

Green Bay Advocate: The spring dude will soon break out with a loud crash, at then we can't help it.

Racine Journal: The latest snap out in this country is the crow and hawk bounty law. It will pay better than the henry.

Marquette Eagle: The latest scientific discovery is encouraging to the smoker. It is said that tobacco kills the consumption bacilli.

Eau Claire Leader: And it came to pass that the Oshkosh Northwestern thinks that a third term for the governor might be too much.

Marion Advertiser: It is publicly stated that Gov. La Follette is hard up. If it's all so, it's all owing to his political extravagance.

Hudson Star-Times: They tell us La Follette is so like Roosevelt. But did La Follette ever succeed in riding a broncho or guiding a legislature?

Milwaukee News: Maybe those Wisconsin senators who voted against Wisconsin inspection are preparing to move to Minnesota when the legislature adjourns.

Racine Journal: Wisconsin people would be pleased to rest for a while. It is safe to say there is no such excitement as is imagined exists, but just the same let things quiet down.

Menasha Breeze: The barbers are to be licensed and it is supposed to licensed architects. Pretty soon, unless we adjourn the legislature, we will have to have a license to get a license.

Menasha Breeze: We must say this for the governor: He has stood consistently for home government rather than legislative government for the counties and cities and it has been a good thing.

Brown County Democrat: The senate has killed the anti-elgarrette bill. We felt right along that this body was far from perfect, but never thought for a moment the members were addicted to this pernicious habit.

Neenah News: The season is at hand for the courageous fool who rocks the boat to make his will and do business. Lake Winnebago is beginning to clap her hands in anticipation of giving a few exhibitions of her superior power.

Marion Advertiser: If there ever was a thoroughly polished politician La Follette is one. He only weighs 160 pounds avoirdupois. Yet this little man has succeeded in carrying republican dissensions into private households.

Beloit Free Press: Probably one of the most interesting sights soon to be seen in Janesville will be that of many of its prominent citizens working with pick and shovel on the streets, as owing to an empty treasury, the attempt is to be made to partially refill by resurrecting and enforcing the poll tax law which has been a dead letter for many years, but still remains a law, which gives the voter the option to pay the tax in money or labor.

CITY DEATH ROLL

James Scott, formerly buyer for the Soverhill warehouse, who went to Colorado some months ago in the hope of regaining his health, died this morning at Colorado Springs at the home of W. J. Davis, formerly of this city. A telegram received by Foreman Jones of the Soverhill warehouse announced the sad tidings.

Harry P. Brunson, who died yesterday morning, was thirty-eight years of age, having been born at White Pigeon, Mich., Sept. 4, 1864. He was for many years reporter of the municipal court, and was a prominent member of the Y. M. C. A. band. The funeral will be held from his late home, at 51 Yuba street, Thursday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock, Rev. J. T. Henderson officiating.

SCHOOL BOARD HELD MEETING

SALARIES OF TEACHERS WERE RAISED TO PAR.

SIX TEACHERS HAVE RESIGNED

The Work of Electing New Ones and Reelecting Present Instructors, Partially Done.

Hereafter grade teachers in Janesville will be paid according to an ascending scale which was last evening adopted by the school board in a report from the committee on teachers. A partial list of appointments of teachers for the ensuing year was also accepted, and routine business transacted.

H. J. Cunningham, chairman of the committee on teachers, reports that careful investigation had been made and that it was found that the Janesville grade teachers were receiving lower salaries than in the majority of the following cities to which the committee had written: Wausau, Ashland, Rhinelander, Green Bay, Eau Claire, Marinette, Fond du Lac, Waukesha, Oshkosh, Madison, Stevens Point and Chippewa Falls.

He therefore recommended the adoption of the following resolution:

To Increase Salaries
Resolved, That general rule No. 1, relating to the salaries of grade teachers is hereby rescinded and on and after the passage of this resolution said rule shall be as follows:

The salaries of all grade teachers shall be hereafter regulated according to the following schedule:

First year not less than $35 nor more than $40 per month.

Second year not less than $38 nor more than $42 per month.

Third year not less than $40 nor more than $45 per month.

Fourth year not less than $45 nor more than $50 per month.

Fifth year not less than $50 nor more than $55 per month.

Teachers may be advanced from year to year until the maximum limit is reached but all advancements must depend upon success achieved as well as length of time taught.

The resolution was adopted. It was explained that the increase in the pay roll would only be slight, because the new teachers would not receive as large salaries as those who have resigned.

The board accepted the resignations of the following teachers: Geo. M. Brace, Mrs. Frances Whitaker, Miss Jessie Reissigne, Miss Imogene MacDonald, Miss Ethel Wiggins and Miss Myra Wilcox.

Next Year's Teachers

SECURES CONTRACT FOR BIG WORK

Hayes Brothers and H. H. Jackson
Will Construct Marshelles Land and Water Power Co.

Hayes Bros. are today preparing to build machinery and tools for shipment to Marshelles, Ill., where they are to engage upon a big contract for the development of water power. The work will be done for the Marshelles Land and Water Power company. H. H. Jackson will superintend the engineering work, while Hayes Bros. will have charge of the construction.

Head and tail mill races will be excavated and two immense dams erected before the contract is fulfilled. ## SMALL BOY WAS BADLY BURNED

Scalded and Received Severe

Scalds.

Two-year-old August Brightman of Monterey is slowly recovering from the effect of severe burns which extended over his shoulders and back, the result of falling into a pail of scalding water about two weeks ago. The child was standing with his back to the pail when his little sister, who did not realize the dangerous position, gave him a little shove, throwing him over into the pail. His shoulders, his back under the left arm, and his hips were painfully burned, and the skin removed in large patches. He is under the care of Dr. Cunningham.

George Stott, formerly night clerk at the Grand, will take up a similar position at Green's hotel at Lake Geneva about June 1.

STREET RAILWAY PLANS CHANGES

WAIT FOR COMMON COUNCIL'S ACTION ON CURVE.

SHORTER RUNNING TIME

The Cars Are Being Painted, and the Entire Line Generally Improved.

Unless the present plans of the Janesville street railway miscarry, the city will soon see a good and efficient car service throughout the entire system. Superintendent Murphy has his plans all laid to juvenile, as it were, the entire system and put the time of running on a more even basis.

Wants Curve

He has petitioned the council for permission to build a curve at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets and will also have a diamond crossing at the Academy street crossing. These changes and the repainting of the cars and thorough overhauling of the entire system will place the line in good condition.

Running Plans

As it is now planned, the Main street cars and in fact all the cars will start from the barn and run down Main to Milwaukee and from thence to the cemetery. On the return trip the Forest Park cars will run out to the end of that line and then back down Main to the barns. The Milton avenue and Main street cars will run from the barns to the cemetery, thence back by way of Milton avenue to the barns again making a complete circuit.

Waiting Permission

All Mr. Murphy is waiting for now is the action of the council on his request to put in the curve on Main street. If this is received, he will start work at once. No 7 car is still in the barns, receiving the finishing touches of a coat of paint and varnish. It will be out next week, and then one by one, the entire system will take its turn at a spring cleaning up.

HOLDING THEIR CONVENTION

Papers Are Order of Today—Cin-
tures Given Tonight—Clin-

Dentists' operating chairs and tables have been set up in the assembly room of the city hall, transforming it into a clinical amphitheater by a rearrangement of the spectators' seats. Exhibits of antiseptics which have been arranged in the hall and an adjoining room give further evidence that the Southern Wisconsin Dental society is in session.

About half a hundred members of the dental fraternity were present when the first meeting was called to order, and the number has rapidly increased with the arrival of each train, until the number at this evening's lectures will probably pass the hundred mark.

Many Speeches Today

Today's meetings are being occupied with papers, an unusually fine list being presented. This evening's lectures, illustrated by stereopticon views, are looked forward to as among the finest offerings of the entire program.

The clinics, of which there are a large number, will begin tomorrow, and occupy the entire day. Part of them will be upon living subjects, others will be "table clinics" in which the tooth to be operated upon is fastened upon a table, and the entire operation performed in sight of all. In the clinics special emphasis is being laid upon porcelain inlay work.

IN TROPICAL MANILA

ROMANTIC AND DRAMATIC HISTORY OF THE CITY.

Laid Out According to the Spanish Idea. It Seems Strange to Western Eyes—Pretentious Public Buildings Are Not Lacking.

(Special Correspondence.)

In the cities of the far east none seems complete without its enclosed area within the walls of which is harbored a record of its romantic and dramatic history. Within the narrow confines of the walls of Manila there exists the burning chronicle of events of over 300 years, and the actual flavor of a dormant, lazy, tropical city. The approach to the gates teem with musty smells which arise from the most, many of which seem to emanate from the very stones that form these ancient walls. Once inside, one is greeted with all the pungent odors that characterize the stuffy portions of tropical cities, and the foods prepared and relished by the inhabitants of such localities.

Here the wild-eyed pickaninies, with parents too poor or too careless for the proper provision of even the conventional G string, tumble over themselves in their attempt to evade the hoofs of a prancing caballero; the rich and the poor of almost every nationality live, each in his own characteristic way, oblivious of the presence of his nearest neighbor. In this portion of the city there are boarding houses which cater to Americans exclusively, the Spaniards and rich natives, as a rule, having their own homes and owning the houses in which they live.

The city was laid out according to the Spanish idea, and the buildings are entirely of Spanish or Moorish design, while the interiors of the houses are similar to both the French and the Spanish in construction. They are all built with courtyards, in which are kept the horses, carriages, chickens, dogs and nearly every species of the animal kingdom.

The houses are two stories in height, the second story extending out some three feet over the sidewalk, thus affording the pedestrian protection from the drenching rains. The windows on the ground floor are protected with large iron gratings, which protrude considerably from the walls of the building. It is here where the seniors recline during the early hours of the evening, inhaling refreshing breezes, darting piercing glances and flirting with the dusky-colored swains.

It is no uncommon sight, in passing through these quaint old Spanish streets in the late afternoon, to see any number of fair Spanish mestizo dames leaning out through these gratings, their large, black eyes, oval-shaped faces and glossy, black hair, with a dash of color in their costumes, forming pictures for an artist's brush.

Calle Real is the principal business street in the walled city, but Calle Palacio contains most of the public buildings. On this street is the Audiencia, or court building; Provost's, or city hall; Potentiana, or the military postmaster's building; Army and Navy Club, the Elks' Hall, the Church of the St. Augustin Friars, and the Santa Isabel College, the latter being a convent for young ladies and girls, a large percentage of whom are pure Castilians.

Fort Santiago, an artillery garrison, which is the headquarters of the post or Manila, and the Cuartel Espana, an infantry garrison, are situated in the walled city, and stand in great contrast to the lazy, peaceful existence prevailing within the walls. Dungeons galore exist in this district. Parian and Postigo prisons are veritable dungeons, and the wall itself is lined with them, but Fort Santiago contains some of the worst, where were practically some of the most famous victims of Spanish tyranny.

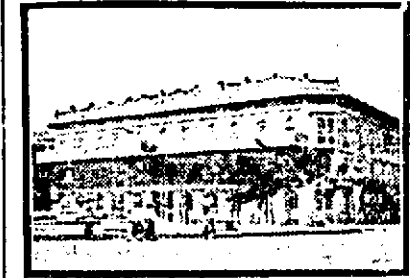

There are many moss-covered ruins in old Manila, most of which are the result of the terrible earthquake of 1880, in which many of the residents lost their lives. These ruins are a dormant part of intramuros and smack of its general waste and decay. No

ter. Thursday of each week is the day that mothers far and near bring their babies into the cathedral to be baptized.

The native will seize every ghost of an excuse for a holiday, and meander upon the street with his black derby cocked slightly on the side, and his starched shirt-tails flapping wildly to the breeze, a pickaninny, possibly, under each arm, and his sisters, cousins, and aunts strutting in the rear. He likes music. There are many bands and orchestras, and he is an unusual Filipino indeed who cannot play a bandurria (mandolin) or guitar. It is rarely, however, that they have a good voice, yet occasionally at the ballies and fiestas which take place in the walled city one will find among the younger set not only some good voices but light and graceful dancers.

All over Manila the houses are infested with graceful little lizards, but they are most numerous in the older houses of the walled city, where their prey is more plentiful. These little lizards feed upon all kinds of insects, and, to a large extent, are probably the cause of the scarcity of flies and other insects.

No screens of any kind are found in any of the houses, and Manilites consequently enjoy a luxury in the absence of flies and other insects seldom afforded those living in tropical countries.

The old walls on the north along the Pasig river are to be torn down, and docks are to be built along the water front, where boats can unload their cargoes, which will be a decided improvement in this portion of the city.

CZAR IS NOT OMNIPOTENT.

Even His Decrees Are Sometimes Defeated in Their Purpose.

Henry Labouchere, the noted English publicist and journalist, in a recent article in his London periodical gives an instance of the manner in which even a definite command of the czar may fail to be carried out by reason of the complicated system of administration in Russia. It seems that somewhere in Finland the peasants very much wanted to have certain roads opened so as to give them more direct communication with St. Petersburg. A petition was therefore circulated and largely signed pointing out the value of these roads as a means of unifying their country with Russia. The czar read the petition "with that minute attention characteristic of all he does" and with his own hand wrote on the margin of it: "I command that these roads be made at once."

Not satisfied with that he sent the petition and command to the minister of public works, who discovered that his department could not possibly carry out the making of the roads. After a delay of some time he made the further discovery that the only person who had the authority and means was the governor of Archangel. A Finland declares that when the governor of Archangel asks for money with which to carry out the imperial order he will be sent to the minister of finance, De Witte, who is an almost fanatical economist, and never has any money whatever for new undertakings. It is now ordered and a half year since the czar ordered the making of these roads, and not one step has yet been taken to carry out his command.

Telling of the Baby.

When a Dutch baby makes its arrival the fact is announced by a man wearing a black coat and a white tie, who is hired by the little one's parents to go round to all their friends with packets of sweets, which are appropriately decorated with a picture of a baby and an angel. The confection is made of aniseed and sugar. Rough sweets signify the birth of a boy, smooth sweets that of a girl. The children of the families to whom they are sent eat the sweets spread upon their bread and butter. In the eighteenth century the birth of a child was announced by tying a pin cushion decorated with lace and ribbons to the doorknocker of the parents' house.

Prof. Koch Is Chosen.

Dr. Koch has been chosen foreign member of the French academy of science to fill the vacancy left by the death of Prof. Virchow. Twenty-eight votes were given for Dr. Koch, against eighteen for Prof. Agassiz, curator at Harvard university; eleven for S. P. Langley of Washington and one for Prof. Van der Waals of Amsterdam.

Marconi and Mascagni. The latest in London is told on Marconi. At a club dinner he was approached by an intelligent, well-informed guest and asked if he would not give the company pleasure by playing his well-known intermezzo. Poor Mascagni probably wishes by this time that he had composed wireless telegraphy.

Miss Stone's Companion to Lecture. Mme. Katerina Telika, the native missionary of Albania, who was captured by brigands in company with Miss Ellen M. Stone will shortly come to this country on a lecturing tour.

A SUCCESSFUL RUSE.

BY WILLIAM F. BROWN.

"Jack," observed the Colonel, letting his hand hover irresolutely over the chess-board, "has it ever occurred to you that it would be an extremely nice arrangement if those two children of ours would fall in love with each other? You and I are getting along in years—eh, old friend?—and I'd like to see Lila settled in a home of her own before the order comes for taps. There is no one in the world I would rather give my daughter to than Billie; the boy is white clear through—he could scarcely be anything different, thought, and his father's son. I can't imagine why they don't," continued the Colonel, argumentatively; "they like each other all right, and are always together—riding, playing golf or something—but never a thought of building a nest of their own. Just listen to that, will you?" he broke off.

"Through the library doorway came the blithe notes of a rollicking duet, sung by two happy, care-free young voices. A tender smile blossomed on Lawyer Reed's clean-shaven lips. 'Bless their hearts!' he said, softly. 'Nothing would give me greater satisfaction or happiness, Phil, than to have what you mentioned come to pass. I've had the same thought myself, and hinted at something of the same kind to Billie—once.'"

"Well?" said Colonel Bradley, tentatively. "The young rascal laughed at me; said the idea was absurd; that while Lila and he were the best of chums, and all that, there was no thought of any nonsense of that sort between them. Billie hinted," went on the lawyer, ruefully, "that I had better stick to chess, and let matchmaking alone."

"Lila appears to be of about the same opinion," remarked the Colonel, dryly. "She called me an old goose to be thinking of such things. I call it lying in the face of Providence—blocking an unexpired onslaught on his queen—for it ever two people were made for each other, it was those two, and they haven't the sense to see it."

John Reed nodded, then all at once snote his knee softly with his hand. "Phil," he said, lowering his voice, "do you remember that white mule we used to have at headquarters—in '65?"

"Ben Johnson's mule?" replied the Colonel, with a reminiscent grin. "Of course I do. The boys used to say that when Ben wanted that mule to go anywhere he'd lead him in the opposite direction, yell 'Git up!' at him, and old Yacker would wheel and run the other way like a deer."

"Young human nature and mule nature are a good similar sometimes," remarked the lawyer, significantly, leaning back in his chair.

Vague comprehension began to dawn in Colonel Bradley's countenance. "Do you think we might work something of the sort, Jack?" he queried, eagerly. "I'd do anything to bring it out, short of putting my girl on bread and water—or not kissing her."

John Reed rose to his feet. "Phil Bradley," he said, in a serious voice, "please try to have your innermost feelings out-poured. I'm going to insult you—for good or no sake, Phil," he whispered, as he perceived a look of blank astonishment sweep over his friend's face. "Don't look like that; it's only a bluff! Play your part man, and don't give me away."

He swept the chess-board off the table with a bang. "Colonel Bradley," he cried loudly, angrily. "This is not the first time I have caught you trying to take an unfair advantage, but it's the last game I'll play with you—"

Something choked his speech, but the Colonel rose to the situation like a hero. "Leave my house," he roared, "you insolent—er—pettifogger!" he wound up, triumphantly.

There was a sudden rush into the library, and a dismayed exclamation. "Father!—Colonel Bradley!"

"You too, sir!" yelled the Colonel. "Don't you dare set foot in my house again! Lila—if I know of your having anything more to do with the son of John Reed, I'll—I'll—down you! They're a pair of—"

Billie Reed grasped his father's arm. "Come, father," he said, proudly, "Colonel Bradley has forgotten that he is a gentleman!"

"They'll never consent," said Lila dolefully. She was standing with Billie Reed behind the grape-arbor in her father's yard a week later, and even a disinterested spectator would have needed no second glance to have shown him that the wondrous light—never yet was on sea or land—was all around them.

"What if they don't?" replied Billie stoutly. "They ought to be ashamed of themselves. Any ought to be ashamed of themselves, trying to keep us apart because they've quarreled! I owe them a debt of gratitude for it, though. I've found out how blind I was—and it's given me the right to—"

"Billie!" cried a muffled voice, "somebody'll surely see us!"

"Let 'em!" replied Billie. "Now listen, Mrs. William Reed-to-be—it's no use for us to wait for parental approval, father and Colonel Bradley won't as much as box to each other! Let's take matters into our own hands, and get married right now—this afternoon! Then we can tell 'em, and they can't alter anything. Besides, I don't believe they would hold out forever. We'll slip out the back gate, and go down to the church-study on Carver street. I saw the Reverend Tisdale going in when I came over." Billie fished in his pocket and produced a formidable-looking document. "I got a special license this morning," he announced, in triumphant tones.

Lila Bradley opened her lips to say no—to expostulate—hesitated, and was lost. The Colonel was setting up the chessmen as his old friend joined him in the library. "They've gone to the minister's," he gasped. "Don't that beat all the rapid transit you ever heard of?"

The Colonel crossed to the buffet, and performed sundry mysterious rites with a decanter and glasses. "To the children's future happiness," he said, solemnly.

The newly-wedded pair paused on the familiar threshold, and stared in utter bewilderment at the two erstwhile bitter enemies placidly playing chess. "Father," cried Billie, "you here?"

"Howdy do, Billie," remarked the Colonel, rising affably. "Been getting married? Your father just came over to congratulate you. Lila—"

CZAR'S TROOPS STAY IN CHINA

Rushes Soldiers to Manchuria Regardless of Promises to Withdraw.

London, May 20.—A dispatch from Peking declares that Russia is flooding both the Korean and Chinese banks of the Yalu river with troops and war munitions, despite her repeated assurances and proclamations that she is preparing to withdraw from New Chwang and Manchuria. Trustworthy evidence, says the dispatch, confirms the report that numbers of Chinese described as former brigands are offered by Russians. They number at least 2,000 and carry a badge inscribed "Protectors of the Forest."

China is Passive. Reviewing the Manchurian situation and commenting on the apathy of the powers the dispatch says that China is agreeing one by one to all the demands presented by M. Plancon, the Russian charge d'affaires, which she pretended to reject en bloc. She has already undertaken not to alter the present administration in Mongolia; not to open any new treaty ports in Manchuria, and has given an assurance not to employ foreigners in the administration of Manchuria, and whether China gives her consent or not, Russia retains the telegraph line between Port Arthur and Mukden.

Russia Controls Customs. China also has agreed that Russia shall have full control of the customs at New Chwang and there is little doubt that an agreement exists giving Russia exclusive mining rights in the Mukden province.

When Manchuria is gone, what security will there be, asks the correspondent, for the position of the Japanese in Korea, military or civil? Does anyone know what secret agreements were signed by the emperor of Korea during the year he resided as a refugee in the Russian legation at Seoul? The correspondent asserts that on April 23 M. Plancon handed to United States Minister Conger an official copy of the Russian demands on China in the original Russian, written in his own hand.

Is After Corea. A dispatch from Tokio asserts the Russians are apparently trying to establish a settlement at Yonagapho, which is situated southeast of Wiju, Corea, and commands the mouth of the Yalu river. Yonagapho, he says, is capable of conversion into a good harbor. The Russians' pretext is that they require the place for shipping timber from the forests of Bengma, which mountain, the Koreans declare, is not included in the timber concessions to the Russians. The Korean government has strongly protested against the purchase of land at Yonagapho by the Russians.
